Town loses a friend — Bob Garland dead at 99

By MARILYN SMULDERS
of The Sentinel-Review

INGERSOLL — A familiar face to many people in Ingersoll, Bob Garland, died Sunday at Alexandra Hospital. He was 99 years old.

Described as "affable," "a great old boy" and "highly respected" by his friends, Garland was always involved in the community.

He was born in 1888 in West Knighton, Dorset England. By the age of seven, he joined the Salvation Army and became a band member a year later.

In 1911, Garland immigrated to Canada with his family. He enlisted in the Salvation Army in Woodstock before joining the Ingersoll roll. After serving overseas during the First World War, Garland returned to Ingersoll and served as corps secretary for the Salvation Army from 1919 to 1969.

"I always remember him at the door of the citadel being so friendly," said longtime friend Betty McIndoe. "He will be well remembered by many."

Added Jack Savage, a fellow Salvationist: "He was a most sincere and devoted member of The Army. He had very high principles and wasn't afraid to voice them."

Funeral services were to be held today at the Salvation Army Citadel, commencing at 1:30 p.m. with Colonel Leonard Kirby officiating.

Herman C. Lindsey (Herm), born in St. Catherines, residing at 304 Thames St. S., Ingersoll, died in Victoria Hospital on Sunday December 18, 1988. He was the husband of Ruth (Thompson) and father of Sheila of Chatham.

Herm, a member of the Masonic Lodge, was active in Trinity United Church and for many years was an effective mentor of the youth group. He also worked faithfully on many committees and on Church Council.

A favorite interest over the years had been his work with the Chamber of Commerce. His contributions to these groups were important in giving them direction, growth, and efficient operation.

The March of Dimes Organization gave him an opportunity to put some of his machanical, electrical, and automotive skills to good use in adapting and building special equipment for the handicapped.

Telephone communication was important to Herm and he made sure that many seniors were regularly called just to make sure they were well.

As a family and neighborhood man, his home was always open for people to share in his generous supply of love and concern.

A memorial Service of Praise and Rejoicing was held in Trinity United Church Sanctuary on Wednesday afternoon December 21, at 2:00p.m.

Memorial donations may be made to the March of Dimes Fund, Ministry with the Deaf at Victoria Area United Church, Chatham; the Memorial Fund of Trinity United Church, Ingersoll.
