

New Year's baby

Erin Michelle Dingwall sleeps comfortably in her mother's arms, unaware of all the excitement surrounding her birth on New Year's Day. She is the second daughter for Heather and Dale Dingwall of Ingersoll and was born Monday morning, claiming the title of the first 1990 baby at Ingersoll's Alexandra Hospital. (Liz Dadson photo)

BY LIZ DADSON

A local couple and the staff at Ingersoll's Alexandra Hospital were surprised when a seven-pound, five-ounce baby girl arrived at 7:33 a.m. Monday to be the hospital's first baby of 1990.

Erin Michelle Dingwall, the second child for Dale and Heather Dingwall of Ingersoll, was not expected until Jan. 5, said her mother.

With the honor of being the New Year's Baby, Erin received a tiny pink T-shirt which reads "I was born at Alexandra Hospital," and a bouquet of helium balloons from the hospital, as well as a knitted outfit from the hospital auxiliary.

This is the first time in quite a few years that the hospital has had its first baby of the year born on New Year's Day, said Andrea Weiner, development director.

"We didn't expect it (New Year's Baby) this quick," she said. Last year the hospital's first baby arrived Jan. 4.

Heather and Dale Dingwall also have a daughter, Andrea, 4 1/2.

Erin's grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. John Dingwall of Lakeside and George and Marilyn Brown of Embro.

Meanwhile, Jerrica Lynn Butyn, first child of Dianna and Ken Butyn of RR 4, Ingersoll, was the first New Year's Baby in Oxford County. She was born at 5:33 a.m. Monday in Woodstock General Hospital, weighing six pounds, 14 1/2 ounces.

ALLISTER (AL) MURRAY INGERSOLL—Flags at Victory Memorial School are at half mast to honor a man whose genuine caring and concern made an impression on generations of Ingersoll students.

Allister (Al) Murray, principal of the school from 1942-1977 and member of the Oxford County Board of Education for four years, died Tuesday. He was 77.

As a teacher and principal, Murray demanded respect and got it, said Gail MacKay, himself a former principal of the school. MacKay was a student in Murray's Grade 8 class in 1953-54 and remembers him as someone who could show great sensitivity to a child with problems.

Murray saw the school change from one of two Ingersoll public schools to the senior public school it is today.

He was deeply involved in his community and was one of the founding members of the Ingersoll Lion's Club in 1939. Murray was the last remaining charter member, said fellow Lion and longtime friend (from Kincardine high school days) Carl Palmer.

Murray served a term as president and was instrumental in the Lion's sponsorship of safety patrols in Ingersoll. He became a life member in 1984.

He was also a dedicated Mason and will be honored at a Masonic memorial service this evening at 7:30 under the auspices of King Hiram Lodge No. 37 A.F. and A.M.

Murray is survived by his wife Marion, son Harry and his wife Shirley, son John, daughter Ruth and grandchildren Lindsey and Michael.

Visitation will be at McBeath Funeral Home today from 2 to 4:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church with Rev. Lonnie Atkinson officiating.

Donations can be made to the Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation or St. Paul's Church memorial fund.

Ingersoll man killed after hit by car Leaves seven-year-old orphaned

Ingersoll Times
Oct 31 1990

By MIKE SWITZER

An Ingersoll man was killed after being struck by a vehicle early Sunday morning in North Dorchester Township.

Twenty-nine-year-old Mark Paget leaves behind an orphaned seven-year-old daughter, Cassandra, whose mother was killed in a traffic accident five years ago.

London OPP said Paget was walking north along Highway 73 when he was struck and killed by a north-bound car, near the township's fourth concession. The accident occurred at approximately 12:15 a.m., police said.

The car was driven by 30-year-old Dutton resident Clifford Gowan. Police said no charges have been laid.

The deceased's mother-in-law, Pat Appleton, said her husband Bev was very close with Paget. The young man loved spending time with people, she said, although his first love was horses which he raised for a living.

"Mark was very serious when it came to horses," she said. "He had one horse in particular that he was quite proud of."

Appleton believes he was likely on his way to Spar Stables in Mossley, where he owned and bred standard-bred horses, when he was struck by the vehicle.

"When he died he was doing everything he really wanted to do. I feel sorry for the man who hit him. It's not something anybody should have to live with."

Paget and his daughter, Cassandra, lived with his parents, John and Verna Paget of Ingersoll, before the accident. Cassandra will be staying with her grandparents, and continuing her education at Ingersoll's Princess Elizabeth Public School, where she is currently in Grade 2.

Cassandra and her father played together frequently, Appleton said.

"Cassie and her friend were talking last night about one time they tied Mark up with their skipping ropes and wrestled with him."

Appleton said Cassandra is handling the tragedy better than anyone.

"I honestly believe Cassie's better adjusted than the rest of us," she said. "The little girl's got a lot of faith."

Appleton mentioned a conversation she overheard between Cassandra and Canon Tom Griffin of St. James Anglican Church in Ingersoll. The girl said that her father had gone to join her mother in Heaven.

"She's pretty special," Appleton said. "She's been through a lot. She's very grown up for her age."
